

8.1 Introduction

The hierarchical structure of the messages is provided in tabular form in a separate document attached to this standard.

Specific business processes between a Release Creator and a Release Distributor may require even further conformance rules. These are, however, not part of the Standard and will need to be agreed between by the parties. Rules relating to the authority of business partners to unilaterally change the Message This sentence is not complete

The tabular rendering of the messages is provided in a separate document. See the blue box here.